The book gives a real life experience of a lady called Josephine who became a mother in her mid-teens. She speaks of hardship in her struggle to make ends meet and of victimization. She relates that through her difficulties – financial and otherwise – she came to the realization that God could help her. She recounts the many times when she asked God to help her and how He pointed her in the direction in which she could solve her problem, or sent someone to help. Hence, she has grown closer to God, relying on Him to help her through difficult times, always remembering to give Him thanks for His mercies and blessings. Josephine hopes that her life story will be an encouragement to readers to serve God, to rely on Him in their daily living and to help others including the less fortunate.
